The Most Beautiful MINBAR

WRITTEN & ILLUSTRATED BY LUQMAN NAGY

DARUSSALAM

GLOBAL LEADER IN ISLAMIC BOOKS

INTRODUCTION

Jerusalem -- or Bayt al-Muqaddas (the 'Sacred House') -- has been important to Muslims since the early days of Islam. Both the Noble Qur'an and authentic hadith make reference to the Holy City.

The Prophet Muhammad ﷺ was transported from Makkah to Jerusalem from where he ascended to the Seven Heavens. These events, known as Al-'Isra' and Al-Mi'raj, feature in the following ayah.

Glory to Allah who did take His servant for a journey by night from the Sacred Mosque [in Makkah] to the Al-Aqsa [in Jerusalem, Al-Quds] whose precincts We did bless. (Al-'Isra': 1)

And in a well-known hadith, the Prophet ﷺ clarified the importance of Jerusalem.

The Prophet ﷺ was once asked by a woman: 'O Rasul Allah! Give us a ruling as to Jerusalem (Al-Quds).' And he said: 'It is the land of the Resurrection and the Judgement assembly. For indeed a prayer there is worth a thousand elsewhere.'

Bayt Al-Muqaddas is also the only place on Earth where all the Prophets of Allah ﷺ performed salah (ritual prayer) in congregation.

With just one exception, Muslims have been the custodians of the Holy City for the past 1,300 years. In the long history of Jerusalem, two exemplary instances of tolerance need repeating. In both cases, Muslims exhibited restraint, kindness and compassion towards those defeated. First, in 638 CE, after the Caliph 'Umar ؓ had peacefully entered Jerusalem on foot, all inhabitants of the city were given protection and the freedom of worship. In 1099 CE, however, Jerusalem fell to the invading Franji, or 'Franks' (Catholic crusaders from Western Europe) who showed no mercy whatsoever to its Muslim, Jewish, or even Orthodox Christian inhabitants. Many were burned or slaughtered in their places of worship. But almost ninety years later, in 1187 CE, Salah al-Din al-Ayyubi liberated Jerusalem and, in stark contrast to the sheer barbarism of the crusaders, was tolerant and merciful to all.

Since the advent of Islam, Muslim leaders have been very generous in endowing Bayt al-Muqaddas with fine new buildings or in refurbishing and embellishing older ones. Both the Qubbat as-Sakhra ('Dome of the Rock') and the Masjid al-Aqsa were built during the first century hijrah by Umayyad caliphs from Damascus.

This book relates the true and fascinating story of the creation, installation, destruction, and eventual rebirth of the magnificent pulpit (minbar) of the Al-Aqsa Mosque from which each week the khatib (sermon reciter) would deliver his address. Salah al-Din had to wait twenty years before he could enter Jerusalem and install the minbar of Nur al-Din Zangi in the Al-Aqsa Mosque. And eight hundred years later, Dar al-Islam had to wait almost forty years for a new minbar to replace the original one destroyed by vandalism.

Every nation treasures its culture, reflected partly in its fine arts and architecture. Islamic culture -- as this book clearly shows -- is as rich and varied as any in the history of mankind and is still alive and well in the 21st century. By the 9th and 10th centuries CE, beautifully-crafted minbars became prominent components of all large mosques from Al-Andalus (Muslim Spain) to the borders of China. The outstanding artistic achievements of traditional Muslim craftsmen are all on display today in the replica of the magnificent wooden minbar of Nur al-Din Zangi.

Insha'Allah, this story of the Al-Aqsa minbar will both educate and inspire its readers. For the purpose of worship, the Prophet ﷺ admonished all Muslims to travel to only three mosques: the Haram in Holy Makkah, the Prophet's ﷺ Mosque in Madinah, and the Al-Aqsa Mosque in Bayt al-Muqaddas. The author prays for the day when Muslims the world over can freely pray in the Al-Aqsa Mosque and can listen to a Friday sermon delivered from the most beautiful minbar.

This book is dedicated to my dear Turkish friend, the kündekâri master Mevlüt Çiller, whose skillful work adorns Al-Aqsa's new minbar.

The city of Jerusalem is sacred to Muslims, Christians and Jews alike. It has a very ancient history and along with neighbouring Jericho (Ariha) to the east, may be one of the oldest continuously-inhabited regions on earth.

The walled city of Old Jerusalem today is dwarfed by the bustling, modern suburbs to the west. However, for centuries, the entire city was contained within its sturdy defence walls, the present ones dating from the time of the Ottoman sultan Sulayman (r. 1520-1566 CE). At the time of the Prophet Muhammad ﷺ, Jerusalem was a tiny Byzantine outpost still trying to recover from the devastating massacre by the Persians in 614 CE. The two magnificent domed buildings one sees today within the walled city both date from the first century hijrah.

For Muslims, Jerusalem -- known in Arabic as al-Quds al-Sharif -- has a very special significance. It was the site of the first qiblah. Also, in about the year 620 CE, the Prophet Muhammad ﷺ was transported from the Ka'bah in Makkah to Jerusalem. His 'Night Journey' (al-'Isra') continued when he ascended (al-Mi'raj) to the Seven Heavens, where he received the command to pray five times a day. And the Prophet ﷺ himself said in a well-known hadith: "Journeys should not be taken [with the intention of worship] except to three mosques: the Sacred Mosque in Makkah; my Mosque in Madinah; and Masjid al-Aqsa in Jersusalem."

In the year 638 CE, six years after the death of the Prophet ﷺ, 'Umar ibn al-Khattab ؓ, the second Caliph, entered Jerusalem which peacefully surrendered to him. The Byzantine Patriarch, Sophronius, offered 'Umar ؓ the keys to the city and then accepted the 'Umariyyah Covenant (al-'Uhda al-'Umariyyah) guaranteeing the rights of the non-Muslim inhabitants of Jersusalem. The Covenant begins ...

In the name of Allah, the Most Merciful, the Beneficent. This is what the servant of Allah, 'Umar ibn al-Khattab, the Amir of the Believers, has offered the people of Illyaa' al-Quds (i.e. Jerusalem) of security granting them amaan (protection), for themselves, their money, their churches, their children, their lowly and their innocent, and the remainder of their people. Their churches are not to be taken; nor are they to be destroyed; nor are they to be degraded or belittled; neither are their crosses or their money; and they are not to be forced to change their religion; nor is any one of them to be harmed.

The Qubbat as-Sakhra (the 'Dome of the Rock') is a beautiful octagonal structure. Its gold covered dome covers the large rock from which the Prophet ﷺ began his Mi'raj. It is the first important building in the history of Islamic architecture.

Throughout history, Muslims, remembering the Prophet's ﷺ hadith, have always longed to visit Al-Aqsa. And this was always possible except for the eighty-eight year long crusader occupation of Jerusalem in the 12th century CE.

al-Sulami, foresaw the dangers of the European incursions into the Muslim world and linked them to similar ones occurring at the same time in Al-Andalus and Sicily.

Al-Sulami lectured in the Umayyad Mosque in Damascus until his death in 1106 CE. In his famous book, Kitab al-Jihad, he was the first to rebuke Muslims for neglecting jihad in their lives. Allah had punished the Muslims for abandoning many religious duties and had permitted the crusading Franks (Europeans) to succeed.

According to Al-Sulami, Muslims must first wage the 'inner jihad', or 'greater jihad' (al-jihad al-akbar) against the nafs ('lower soul') before attempting the 'lesser jihad' (al-jihad al-asghar) against the infidels. In his words: "First, give precedence to the jihad of your selves over the jihad against your enemies."

The recapture of Jerusalem by the crusaders in 1099 CE was a very bloody one and was in stark contrast with Umar's ﷺ peaceful entry into the city almost five centuries earlier. Muslims sheltering in the Al-Aqsa Mosque, Jews seeking refuge in their synagogues, and Orthodox Christians living in the city were slaughtered -- almost to a man. The Christian beatitude of 'Blessed are the merciful, for they shall obtain mercy' was apparently forgotten in the wanton killing and mayhem the crusaders brought to the Holy City.

Several of the sole survivors of the Jerusalem massacre fled to Damascus where they related their painful story to the qadi (grand judge) Abu Saad Al-Harawy. On the following Friday, the qadi went bare-headed and dressed in black to the mosque. He proceeded to mount the minbar and in full view of the congregation, began to eat some bread. As it was Ramadhan, everyone was shocked and before being arrested, he shouted to the gathered Muslims: "Jihad to regain Jerusalem is more of a religious duty than praying and fasting in Ramadhan!" Al-Harawy later proceeded to Baghdad where he received little more than tears from the reigning 'Abbasid caliph.

Unfortunately, the wise message of faqih Al-Sulami and qadi Al-Harawy was not heeded until much later, when in the 12th century CE, Nur al-Din Zangi and Salah al-Din both took the concept of jihad seriously and led successful campaigns to rid Dar al-Islam of European invaders. The term jihad now became equated with 'national liberation' -- a war of self-defense against foreign occupation and domination.
